Dear Comrade,

I have pleasure in enclosing herewith a letter from a friend of ours in Scotland regarding your book called "Workers' Councils", which we understand has been published in Australia.

Would it be possible for you to let me know whether one can obtain a copy of this book in England as I would like to oblige our good Scottish comrade who is interested in your work.

Yours fraternally,

John McNair

Dear Comrade,

I was very pleased to receive your letter of the 12th instant regarding the book on Workers' Councils which you published in Melbourne. I am immediately giving this information to our Scottish comrade and shall assist him in obtaining a copy of this book.

Regarding the general question of the distribution of this literature in England, I am sorry to say that just at the moment we are having very great difficulty in selling our own literature on account of the political lethargy which exists in the country, and I am afraid that if we take a number of copies in stock for sale in England we shall not be in a position to dispose of them satisfactorily. At the same time, now that we have the necessary information, we shall be pleased to give this to any of our comrades.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Comrade Pannekoek,

I was delighted to receive your lecture notes this afternoon just in time for the Summer School. I am leaving for the School this evening and I shall have great pleasure in filling in the general socialist arguments and back ground of your lecture and read it to the assembled students.

It is not necessary for me to say how deeply I appreciate this mark of fraternal solidarity. It must have been extremely trying and difficult for you to have found time to write out this statement by hand and you may rest assured that I shall inform the students of your abnegation and assiduity.

With socialist greetings,

Yours sincerely and fraternally,

John McNair
